- (1) Tokyo: A ferocious tsunami spawned by the biggest earthquake ever recorded in Japan (and the fifth worse in the world since 1900) slammed the country's eastern coast on Friday, killing hundreds – Kyodo says toll could cross 1000, sweeping away houses, boats and cars across cities and farms. Hours later, the tsunami hit Hawaii and set off warnings as far away as the west coast of the US and South America.
- (2) Japanese police officials said the toll was at least 1000 with 300 hundred bodies found in Sendai, a port city in north-eastern Japan and the closest large population to the epicentre. The full extent of injuries weren't known and the toll is feared to rise substantially.
- (3) Walls of water whisked away houses and cars in central Japan, where terrified residents fled the coast. Train services were shut down across central and northern Japan, including Tokyo, and air travel was severely disrupted. A ship carrying over 100 people was swept away by the tsunami, Kyodo News reported.
- (4) Even for a country used to earthquakes, this one was horrific because of the tsunami that swallowed everything in its path as it surged several kilometres in land before refreating. The government evacuated thousands of residents near a nuclear plant about 250 km northeast of Tokyo after a backup generator failed.
